Search halted after man found in Maine

UNITY — An all-night search for a 21-year-old Unity man in the nearby woods was called off yesterday morning when the man was located in Maine.

Jeremy Lemire was reported to have walked away from his family's home sometime Saturday after 3 p.m. Two Fish and Game officers and 15 volunteers began a search of nearby trails in the area of Crescent Lake about 9 p.m.

Lemire, who authorities said initially called his brother by cell phone to tell him he was going for a walk, was reportedly not dressed properly for the cold weather.

Authorities said a check of Lemire's cell phone eventually led them to Phillips, Maine. Lemire apparently found a ride there Saturday afternoon to visit a female friend.

The search was called off early yesterday morning when contact was made with Lemire in Maine.

Authorities said the case is still under investigation and Lemire may be charged for costs associated with the search.
