Essex police say a series of ground searches turned up no clues in the disappearance of William and Lorraine Currier.

Essex, Colchester and State police teams searched Essex and neighboring towns Friday. New England K9 Search and Rescue members assisted.

The Curriers have been missing since June 8. They didn't show up for work the next day, and their car was found about a mile from their house June 10.

"Unfortunately the investigators did not locate any evidence that would lead them to determine the whereabouts of the Curriers. There no other details available at this time," Essex police said in a news release Friday afternoon.

Police asked anyone with information that would help locate William and Lorraine Currier to call 878-8331.
